Jussi is an experienced attorney assisting clients on a full range of employment law matters and related dispute resolution. Jussi has particular experience in managing employment disputes, and representing clients in related legal proceedings, drawing on his experience within the Finnish court system. In addition to dispute resolution work, he provides strategic advice on general employment law and a wide variety of assignments, including transactional aspects of employment law, redundancy procedures and reorganisations, employment and executive-level agreements, incentive and retention arrangements, and internal investigations and terminations of employment. He also has specific expertise in issues related to non-competition undertakings and other restrictive covenants and their enforcement.
