Matti practises arbitration and litigation in the Dispute Resolution group. Matti has particular experience in construction, engineering, industrial and project delivery disputes.

In addition to negotiating settlements and advocating cases in front of arbitral tribunals and state courts, Matti also has experience in dispute avoidance, such as in training clients or in drafting agreement templates that seek to prevent future disputes.

To add to experience gained at Hannes Snellman, Matti draws from his previous career as a journalist in leading Finnish news organisations, where he specialised in politics and business.
